South Western Sydney PHN

Reflect
Reconciliation Action Plan
January 2019-January 2020
Foreword

On behalf of the South Western Sydney PHN Board of Directors, the Executive and our staff, we acknowledge the Dharawal and Gandangara people as the Traditional Custodians of the lands across our region that we gather and work upon.

We pay our respects to all Elders past, present and future and to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples across our nation.

We celebrate their continuing culture and acknowledge the memory of their ancestors.

It is with great pride that we present South Western Sydney PHN’s first Reconciliation Action Plan. This plan demonstrates our whole organisation’s commitment to building respect and relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, which underpins our contribution towards achieving meaningful gains in Aboriginal health.

As an organisation, we have made some significant steps to celebrate and build respectful relationships with our local Aboriginal communities. Our reconciliation journey will allow us to continuously build on these relationships and, in doing so, improve our workplace for our staff, our visitors and the communities we serve.

The cover design for our Reconciliation Action Plan is a beautiful piece of commissioned artwork that was created for South Western Sydney PHN by a local Aboriginal artist. The design was born out of her knowledge of the PHN, who we are, our community involvement, and our ability to provide services to educate, to heal, to empower.

The artwork is named “Corroboree at Sunset” with a focus on traditional healing with connectedness to country and nature, traditional dance and costumes, and the smoking ceremony for cleansing, linking healing and culture.

About the Artist

Susan Grant is an Aboriginal descendant of the Wiradjuri people of the south and west area of NSW. Susan was born in Leeton NSW in 1962. Susan grew up predominantly in Sydney’s outer western area of St Marys.

Susan is a self-taught visual artist and believes she has been handed down a special gift of story telling from her ancestors to share through her paintings.

Susan’s artwork became more intense over time which Susan feels is a reflection on her connection to her history and culture. Susan commenced painting in 1991 and since becoming an artist Susan has achieved many awards and recognition from her community in the Greater Western Sydney region and beyond, having her artwork displayed in many Australian corporate and government buildings as well as overseas, in particular Japan.
The commissioned artwork was designed and painted for the Aboriginal Health team located at South Western Sydney PHN by Donna Sadleir whom is a proud Wiradjuri woman born in Peak Hill and now a Campbelltown local.

The artwork was used as the design for the PHN uniform which is worn by all staff for every date of significance within the Aboriginal calendar, these are worn with pride.

The artwork depicts a strong message to community that we at the PHN are about Aboriginal history, culture and healing.

The circle in the centre represents the Aboriginal Health team with our healing hands, the four outer circles represent the four local hospitals with the footprints of community coming to the team to assist with their healthcare needs. The men & women sitting represents the communities & groups within our area.

The leaves and branches symbolise medicine and healing.

Footnote:
These two individual works of art were commissioned by South Western Sydney PHN and we also acknowledge the intellectual property of both Susan Grant & Donna Sadleir respectively.
Permission has been granted from both artists to reproduce and display their works within this document.
The South Western Sydney PHN region covers the following areas which are recognised, and include but are not exclusive to the major traditional nations of Dharawal (Tharawal) and Gundangarra (Gandangara).

South Western Sydney PHN covers seven Local Government areas (LGAs) of Bankstown, Camden, Campbelltown, Fairfield, Liverpool, Wingecarribee and Wollondilly - which span an area of 6243 square kilometres.

According to the 2016 census there were 16,317 people within the South Western Sydney region that identified as being either Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander; this is equivalent to 1.8% of the population, the overall population is 966,450.

Cultural identities are extremely important for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. They represent different heritages, languages, cultural practices, spiritual beliefs and geographic areas.
Our Vision for Reconciliation

Our vision for reconciliation is that our community walks together towards a shared future, acknowledging through actions and words the histories, cultures and contributions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community members.

Our Organisational Vision

A lead organisation enabling an effective, innovative and integrated health system for South Western Sydney.
Our Business

South Western Sydney PHN (SWSPHN) is a not-for-profit health organisation with our core business being to support and shape primary care services so all residents in our region can access the right care, at the right time, by the right people, at the right location.

We commissioned services that will enhance equitable access to care.

This will be achieved by achieving our goals of:

• A healthier community
• An informed & empowered community
• A better health care system experienced by general practitioners and primary care providers
• An integrated health system that is fit for purpose
• Primary health care services that demonstrates value

Our staff

South Western Sydney PHN employs more than 62 staff members. Governed by a Board of Directors, our staff consists of Executive Management, Senior Management, Coordinators and program and administrative staff.

South Western Sydney has one office location.

As at 1 March, South Western Sydney has two staff members who identified as being Aboriginal. This figure equates to 1.4%.

About the Reconciliation Action Plan

The Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) is about organisations from every sector turning good intentions into real actions and rising to the challenge of reconciling Australia. A RAP is a business plan that uses a holistic approach to create meaningful relationships, enhanced respect and promote sustainable opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Australians.

The RAP program includes four types of RAPs, each offering a different level of engagement and support. In developing a Reflect RAP, our organisation, South Western Sydney PHN, commits to completing the following actions over the next 12 months to ensure we are well positioned to implement effective and mutually beneficial initiatives as part of future Reconciliation Action Plans.
South Western Sydney PHN believes reconciliation is where the broader Australian community understands, acknowledges and respects Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, histories, cultures and achievements in moving forward together with a shared national identity. Within our business we will aim to increase the support and services provided to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples to access culturally appropriate services.

This will involve building stronger relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, stakeholders and organisations and increasing awareness with our employees of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures. We believe accessing culturally appropriate care supported by culturally aware staff is a key factor in enhancing the health and wellbeing of an individual, their family and community.

RESPECT AND CULTURAL AWARENESS
Ensuring Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health is part of our core business

WORKFORCE
Improve employment opportunities and training both internally & externally

RELATIONSHIPS
Working closely with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, communities and organisations

NEEDS BASIS
Based off the high percentage of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in our region

ORGANISATION COMMITMENT
Harnessing the already existing positive commitment and providing leadership

EMPOWERMENT
Enhance health literacy
Ability to make better informed decisions

Improved health outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities
South Western Sydney PHN is committed to developing a meaningful RAP which staff at all levels of the organisation will align with.

The commitment of the RAP will be led by the Chief Executive Officer (CEO). The CEO will ensure as a priority, all executive and senior managers understand and align operational practices with the strategies within the RAP and share the South Western Sydney PHN RAP vision and strategies with their teams.

A RAP Working Group was established on a voluntary basis and includes staff from various sections of the organisation.

Input on the RAP was sought from the Director of Planning and Performance, Integrated Health Manager, Aboriginal Health Program Coordinator; whom herself identifies as Aboriginal, Commissioning Manager, Research Coordinator, Population Health and Planning Coordinator, Integrated Health Coordinator, Aged and Complex Care Coordinator, Mental Health Program Officer, Contract Coordinator, Practice Support Officers, and Practice Nurse Coordinator.
Our Journey To Date

SWSPHN has long standing relationships with multiple providers of Aboriginal specific services including but not limited to South Western Sydney Local Health District Aboriginal Health Unit, Tharawal Aboriginal Medical Service, Gandangara Health Services (Marumali).

The PHN also convenes and leads an Aboriginal Health Committee which provides feedback, input and guidance on PHN activity. South Western Sydney PHN is very fortunate to have stakeholder representation from a variety of communities, including local Elders, NGO & Government sectors to ensure Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health is viewed holistically, culturally and spiritually.
Our Partnerships And Current Activities

Community Partnerships

• Formal partnership with Tharawal Aboriginal Medical Service.

Reconciliation Australia is delighted to welcome South Western Sydney Primary Health Network to the Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP) program and to formally endorse its inaugural Reflect RAP.

As a member of the RAP community, South Western Sydney Primary Health Network joins over 1,000 dedicated corporate, government, and not-for-profit organisations that have formally committed to reconciliation through the RAP program since its inception in 2006.

RAP organisations across Australia are turning good intentions into positive actions, helping to build higher trust, lower prejudice, and increase pride in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures.

Reconciliation is no one single issue or agenda. Based on international research and benchmarking, Reconciliation Australia defines and measures reconciliation through five critical dimensions: race relations; equality and equity, institutional integrity; unity; and historical acceptance. All sections of the community - governments, civil society, the private sector, and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities - have a role to play to progress these dimensions.

The RAP program provides a framework for organisations to advance reconciliation within their spheres of influence. This Reflect RAP provides South Western Sydney Primary Health a roadmap to begin its reconciliation journey. Through implementing a Reflect RAP, South Western Sydney Primary Health Network will lay the foundations for future RAPs and reconciliation initiatives.

We wish South Western Sydney Primary Health Network well as it takes these first critical steps in its reconciliation journey. We encourage the organisation to embrace this journey with open hearts and minds, to grow from the challenges, and to build on the successes. As the Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation reminded the nation in its final report:

“Reconciliation is hard work—it’s a long, winding and corrugated road, not a broad, paved highway. Determination and effort at all levels of government and in all sections of the community will be essential to make reconciliation a reality.”

On behalf of Reconciliation Australia, I commend South Western Sydney Primary Health Network on its first RAP, and look forward to following its ongoing reconciliation journey.
